REST COMES TO PIONEER OF VALLEY

GOD'S ACRE IN THE HILLS CLAIMS DELIGHT S. LEE, CHURCH LEADER

Memories of the earliest of pioneer days in the upper San Gabriel valley passed in review on Wednesday afternoon at the Covina First Methodist church, when last words of love and tribute were said over the body of Delight S. Lee, beloved widow of George W. Lee, whose ranch home Section Center was a part of the first plantings in this portion of southern California. Her life-story runs like a golden thread through the social and religious activities of the valley for half a century.

The church was well filled with people of all faiths, with virtually all of the remaining neighbors of her pioneer days in attendance, although it was commented upon that she was almost the last of that group that had so much influence in the early days of the valley. Mrs. Lee, who was born in 1837, she had been a powerful, but quietly working agency for religious education during these years. She was also a charter member of the Woman's Foreign missionary society, in which she took an active part up to the very last days of her life. For seventeen years she held the office of treasurer of that organization, and one of the tributes given her was that which came from the conference treasurer, who said that Mrs. Lee "had never made a mistake of a penny in her accounts, nor had she ever been a day late in her reports." She was of the faithful the most faithful, and among the sacrificing, herself a living sacrifice in the interests of the kingdom of her Lord.

FRIENDS HONOR HER

It was a tender and consecrated tribute that was recorded her memory in the house of worship where she had labored. Rev. Alfred Inwood of Pacific Palisades, intimately associated with her family, spoke of this woman's devotion with a restrained power that bespoke the love in his heart, enumerating the manifold blessings that she had brought to those who came in contact with her. A quartet of her friends, composed of Mrs. John H. Coolman, Mrs. Edward Davis, Randall Chew, Jr., and George Aschenbrenner, sang two numbers she had loved in her life. They were "Jesus, Savior, Pilot Me," and "Hide Me," with Lucie Wheeler presiding at the instrument. Mrs. J. L. Matthews, fellow officer in the church organizations with the beloved woman, (Continued on last page)

Russell F. Thrapp New Pastor of Christian Church

Rev. Russell F. Thrapp, who has just closed a pastorate of ten years with the First Christian church of Seattle, including the erection of a $200,000 building, has accepted a temporary pastorate with the Christian church of Covina, with a view of a permanent location if the work promises development. Rev. Thrapp has also served the First Christian church of Los Angeles as pastor for six years.

Rev. and Mrs. Thrapp have come to Southern California to be near their relatives in Los Angeles, and also believing that this section of the state promises permanent growth in church building.

Mrs. Thrapp is a singer of reputation, having sung in many large auditoriums throughout the country, in concert work as well as church singing. She is also a teacher of voice. Mrs. Thrapp was leading soprano in the large churches in Seattle and Los Angeles.

Brilliant Costumes Give Unique Flair to Football Field

More than an ordinary amount of favorable comment from the big football crowd at the Covina-Citrus game at Covina on Armistice day was directed toward the color picture made by the rooting sections, with Citrus dressed in orange and yellow, and Covina directed in cardinal and white, the stands alternately waving colored plumes of paper.

The picture was set in a square frame of the orange groves that surround the stadium, under a clear, warm sky.

The two school bands, dressed in the school colors, lent added beauty to the scene, playing in the center of the field during the intermissions. A touch of the military was given by the snappy trumpet drum corps of the Covina American Legion.

Work On Gas Main Postponed Until January

The proposed 10-inch header gas line which is one of the capital expenditures of the Southern Counties Gas company for this district, will not be constructed until early in January, according to definite announcement made today by District Manager C. G. Spencer of the Southern Counties Gas company.

Covina is being served on a low pressure distribution system which is to some extent inadequate for the winter "peak" months when the gas load is heaviest. The gas company had accordingly made preparations to improve the service conditions in this section immediately.

Covina merchants, realizing that such construction work on Citrus avenue from Covina boulevard to the city limits, would interfere with holiday sales, asked that the work be delayed until after the shopping. The gas company, after a meeting with the local business men, in deference to their objections, decided to delay the improvement until January.

The Southern Counties Gas company had made complete plans for starting the construction work on the new 3600 feet gas line immediately and the pipe had been ordered and the money appropriated. As a result of the above conference with the Covina merchants along Citrus avenue, actual construction work will be held over until after the holidays.

Baldwin Park Youths Charged With Burglary

Charged with burglary, as the result of an alleged breaking and entering of a toolhouse of the Walker Gravel company at Baldwin Park, Earl Needham and Glenn Lawhead, two Baldwin Park youths, were arraigned Wednesday before Justice of the Peace Durrell, sitting in place of Justice Tom Reed, and pleaded not guilty. Trial was set for November 28 at 10 a.m.

The arrests were made by officers from the burglary squad of the sheriff's office, who claim that the offense was committed on November 4. Baldwin Park has been experiencing an epidemic of burglaries in the past several weeks, according to these officers, and an investigation has been in progress in an attempt to break up an alleged gang that has been operating in that part of the valley, the officers declare.

Needham, who is a high school student, is declared to have said that he had no knowledge that he was engaged in a criminal act, as the two youths had been working at the plant, and he says he believed he had a right to enter the place.

FORMER COVINA FOOTBALL STAR IN COLLEGE GAME

Phil Kereckhoff, who played end on Covina's first championship football team, played the same position last Saturday on the Santa Clara team that beat Stanford.

WATER USERS WALK OUT ON STATE BODY

VALLEY MEN WALK OUT OF COMMISSION PARLEY ON SAN GABRIEL RIVER

That the state division of water rights has no jurisdiction in the allocation of water already appropriated, and cannot give title to water, not being a court of law, was the contention of representatives of a group of privately-owned and mutual companies in the San Gabriel river basin, who walked out of the hearing this week, refusing to participate further in the matter of granting San Gabriel canyon water rights to the cities of Pasadena, Monrovia, Alhambra, Long Beach, Whittier, and other communities.

The walkout came almost at the opening of the hearings on Monday, and although the hearing was scheduled to occupy many days of taking testimony, it came to a close on Tuesday, after listening to the pleas of Pasadena and Monrovia. The applications of these cities were taken under consideration, and a decision will be made later by the state body.

Many water users from the mountains to the sea, in what is known as the upper and lower San Gabriel basins, were represented by the San Gabriel Valley Protective association, with Attorneys Anderson & Anderson and Hass & Dunnigan, making the arguments. This organization opposes the applications of the municipalities. Both Monrovia and Pasadena have signed intention of building a dam at Granite Dike, a few miles below the site of the flood control dam, contingent upon their being granted water rights. These new water rights are based on the assumption that the flood control dam will create "surplus" water that can be held, both in the flood control dam and in a dam below, and diverted from the canyon for domestic use. The cities applying all assert that their need for domestic water is acute.

COURT ACTION SEEN

The action of the water companies, in withdrawing from the hearing this week, is interpreted to mean that in the event any new priorities are established by the state, the whole matter will be placed before courts of law for review and decision. It is claimed that no surplus water exists in the canyon; that all water has been filed on and allocated for a long period, and that the so-called surplus water that may be conserved by the flood control dam is as yet non-existent, and if conserved in the future, will still be a part of the canyon flow that is held under appropriation.

The San Gabriel Valley Protective association and other agencies declare that a determined fight will be made at all times to protect the existing water rights.

Four Men Held As Disturbers At Local Game

Charged with disturbing the peace, as the result of an altercation on the football grounds during the game between Citrus and Covina high schools at Covina on Armistice day, Hollis Benton, Pete Benton and Charles Boling of Covina, and Charles Boling of Charte, Oak were arraigned Monday night before City Recorder Thomas B. Reed, where they pleaded not guilty, and a trial date was set for next Wednesday.

Bystanders, of which there were at least a thousand in the vicinity of the alleged disturbance, declared that the men seemed to be in violent dispute concerning the relative merits of the two teams. Shots of spectators brought every peace officer on the grounds to the scene. During the excitement it is declared that one officer fired tear bomb cartridges. The men were booked by City Marshal L. J. Barry.

ODDFELLOWS RENEW OLD FRIENDSHIPS

VALLEY LODGES GATHER AT COVINA FOR EVENING OF REMINISCENCE

Ties of Oddfellowship were renewed Wednesday night at a reunion of the "old-timers" of district No. 39, held at Covina Oddfellows' hall, participated in by the lodges of Azusa, Covina, Glendora, and Baldwin Park. A delegation of Pomona Cantons also participated.

Events of the evening began with a 6:30 supper, enjoyed by nearly one hundred and fifty members of the fraternity. Second degree work was put on at the regular meeting hour, followed by a period of reminiscences from the older members, many coming from a distance.

Covina lodge was organized January 19, 1898, with a membership of sixty-five, of which seventeen came from other lodges, and forty-eight were initiated. Of this number, nine were present Wednesday night, being Dr. J. D. Reed, E. M. Snodgrass, C. W. Fisher, E. J. Fisher, C. W. Fisher, George J. Fisher, J. L. McKel of Los Angeles, M. L. McHorn of Monrovia, and Joseph Morley of Huntington Park. J. O. Houser, who has remained active in work in the lodge, signed the constitution a few days later.

About twenty years ago, the Encampment for the district was organized. This meets in the Covina lodge hall.

Oddfellowship in the valley includes some of the most prominent of leaders in business and professional life, and has always been considered a stronghold in the organization throughout the state. Participating in the program were the officials of the valley lodges, and the affair was presided over by Noble Grand C. L. Hoffman of Covina, with District Deputy Grand Master W. W. McKee making a report of the activities of the organization.

Game Scheduled to Be Played on Pomona's Field

Covina has been scheduled by the C. I. F. officials to play Pomona on Thanksgiving day for the first playoff game for the southern California high school football championship. The game will be played on the Pomona grounds.

Covina has won the San Gabriel Valley league honors with no defeats and Pomona won the Citrus Belt league with a perfect score. At present it looks as though these two were the outstanding high school football teams of the south. All the other near-champs are having rough sailing in their own leagues.

Pomona won 5-0 over Covina in a practice game, but Covina backers refuse to take this as indicative of the comparative strength of the teams. They point out that Newman on that day used but few scoring plays, punted on first and second downs, and in addition to that the local boys made fumbles and bad passes from center that have not showed up in later games.

Pomona has three star backs—Raymond Wilson and John A. O'Connell. These in the first title play of the season will be Shaver, Fischer, Jewett, Anderson, Needham, and Timmons.

In the practice game Pomona did not show any remarkable strength of line, not being able to score a touchdown when the ball was near the goal, and out of more than a dozen attempted passes Covina smothered every one. Covina used but few passes, but most of the ones tried were successful. Fischer making a long run and almost scoring a touchdown on one.

GAME TODAY

Montebello has forfeited to Covina the last game in the San Gabriel Valley league schedule, and Coach Newman has arranged a game for today with the Sherman Indians on the latter's field at Riverside.

The Covina team won over the Indians last year, being heavier and stronger, but the Indians played one of the cleanest-cut games of football ever seen here. Passing and open-team work is what they rely on for scoring.

Club Women Conducting Red Cross Campaign

The Red Cross drive is on, and is being efficiently conducted by the civic committee of the Woman's club. Mrs. J. T. Huntington, chairman, is assisted by Mesdames R. W. Crook, Ralph Frost, T. E. Foster, R. W. Groom, H. G. Upham, and E. H. Walters. These ladies started their campaign Monday at the Woman's club, and will make up their quota by personal solicitations and with tables conveniently located on the street. The committee is given until Thanksgiving to solicit.

The R. C. Cross, during the past year, has sustained 22 public health nurses in California, who have made over 27,000 visits to the homes. More than 2000 ex-service men and their families were assisted each month by the 121 Red Cross chapters in California, assisting in settling government claims, procuring hospital treatment and aiding the families in cases of disability.

A total of 607,000 persons received emergency assistance from the American Red Cross in its Mississippi valley flood relief work.

Fifty per cent of the amount raised in Covina can be drawn upon in time of disaster or as requirements come.

NEW HARDWARE MANAGER

The local management of the Drew Carriage Company this week announces an addition in its force, Earl F. Davis, former manager of Hummerley hardware store of this city. Mr. Davis will assume charge of the hardware department.

DEFEATS CITRUS 33-0 IN BIG HOLIDAY GAME

Shaver Runs Back Kickoff for Touchdown to Provide Big Thrill in Holiday Game; Citrus Puts Up Brave Fight

Covina surely dispelled any doubts as to who had the best football team in the San Gabriel Valley league when "Chief" Newman's sturdy warriors rolled up a score of 33-0 in the annual Citrus contest here Friday. Not that anyone hereabouts doubted the outcome, but there were those in other localities who had to be shown.

The game was an enthusiastic and colorful affair, attended by thousands from all over the valley. Even standing room around the gridiron was difficult to obtain. Uniforms, pom poms, bands, rooters and marchers were viewed with interest, but were only incidental to the real business of the day—football.

The Citrus team, after playing a tie game with Monrovia the week before, felt that it had a fighting chance against the Covina squad, and put up a brave fight against a stronger and better aggregation. Nervousness at the start no doubt had a part in causing the boys to make fumbles on the first two plays, the second of which gave the ball to Covina. But even at that the Citrus boys were able to prevent Covina from scoring in the first quarter, this period ending with the ball on the Citrus 25-yard line.

Citrus started passing drives on two or three occasions, but after making a few wild throws the ball intercepted on each occasion. They attempted their hairy but sometimes layout play on a couple of occasions, but were caught at it and covered before anything happened.

The football boys suffered a number of injuries throughout the contest, while the local boys never showed that they were even jarred. This superior physical condition of the Covina boys has shown itself in every contest they have engaged in during Newman's coaching.

Happily the game was not attended by any incidents that might arouse any feeling of unfairness one way or the other. The state governing athletic body had sent four of the best officials in the south, so important did it consider the contest. These men watched every move with the same intentness they would a big college game.

Captain Shaver of Covina was the scintillating star of the day, but the whole Covina team played a game above reproach. In the backfield, assisting Shaver in carrying the ball were Fischer, Anderson, Needham, Timmons, Jewett and Goodrich, while on the line the work of Chamberlain, Grimmesey, Ross and Arnel was outstanding.

The local boys went scoreless in the first quarter, but started the second period with a bang, Shaver going over for a touchdown on the third play and converting. Shaver carried the ball all the way from the 38-yard line.

Then, at the start of the second half, Shaver made a play that will probably never be forgotten in local football lore. He took the Citrus kickoff and ran through the whole opposing team for a touchdown. The Covina interference simply spread apart the Citrus boys and made a hole for Shaver to gallop through.

Fischer figured prominently in the third touchdown, running the ball around the Citrus left end. Marches down the field netted two more touchdowns in the last quarter, Shaver and Goodrich carrying the ball across. Three of the touchdowns were converted.

This game gave Covina the league championship, the local boys having won all their games. Forfeit of the Montebello game to have been played today gives Covina a 1,000 per cent league record.

Following is the play-by-play record:

FIRST QUARTER

The game was started by Chamberlain of Covina kicking to the Citrus 25-yard line, Hawes, Citrus end, running the ball back 10 yards. On first play Citrus fumbled and recovered, losing 5 yards. On following play Citrus fumbled again and ball was recovered by Chamberlain. Shaver made first downs on three plays and had ball on Citrus 30-yard line. Covina fumbled and recovered, made (Continued on page 11)

Bronsons Home From Trip to Lower California

Mr. and Mrs. D. D. Bronson returned Tuesday from an eight-day auto trip to Santo Domingo and San Quintan bay, Mexico, 210 miles below the border. They stopped two days enroute at San Felipe, San Luis near Ensenada, where hunters were daily bringing in limit bags of quail and duck, with an occasional deer or goat.

Side trips were made to the ruins of the old Jesuit missions of Santo Domingo, San Vicente, and Santo Tomas, the extensive San Quintan salt beds, and the ancient Antoniasqui winery near Santo Tomas.

They report the roads south of Ensenada as exceedingly rough. In Mexico they secured some typical examples of Mexican pottery for their Mexican-type house on Vine avenue.

Business Women's Club at Dinner

The Business and Professional Women's club met at the Palace of Sweets Tuesday night in a 6:30 dinner, both tables in the banquet room being filled with members and guests. Following the excellent dinner, two vocal solos were given by Miss Genevieve Fincher, and the speaker of the evening, Mrs. Amelia Johnson, state chairman of legislation and an attorney of Los Angeles, was introduced. Mrs. Johnson spoke on "Protective Laws for Women," dealing with community property, change in the majority age for girls, and the eight-hour labor law.

At the close of the meeting the members were guests of Mr. Jack Brown at the second showing of the reel, "Camille."

ONE PHONE EXCHANGE FOR POMONA VALLEY

The new scale of rates will give local service with one exchange for Pomona, Claremont, La Verne, San Dimas and Chino, as requested by those cities. The former local rates were increased, but not to the degree that the company requested.

As we join in the home-comings and feasting of this season, we can give thanks that the understanding established between the friendly Indians and the Puritans more than three centuries ago is duplicated in the trust and confidence between men of all sections, occupations, and positions today.

Every one has something for which to be thankful. So the day of turkey and cranberry sauce, of pumpkin pie and luscious fruits is a welcome festival.

As we review the record of the year past—we know that growing accounts are cause for thanksgiving by many customers. If you're not one of those who gained—make a fresh start now! We're here to help.

[enjoy the delightful trip through the picturesque Southland and romantic Old South]

The colorful route east of Southern Pacific's "Sunset Limited" skirts the nation's southern border. Through California's orange lands; across fertile mesas, broad cattle ranges. Phoenix, El Paso, San Antonio, Houston, and on along the placid bayous of Louisiana to New Orleans.

"Sunset Limited," famed round the world, carries you swiftly and comfortably. Its appointments are superb; comparable to those of a fine hotel or club.

From New Orleans you can continue by train to middle west or eastern points, or by Southern Pacific steamship to New York (meals and berth on the ship included in your fare).

You can go this way and return if you wish over another Southern Pacific route—Golden State Route between Los Angeles, El Paso and Chicago; Overland Route San Francisco, Ogden and Chicago; and Shasta Route to Pacific Northwest and east over northern lines. A choice offered only by Southern Pacific.

ATHENS, NAPLES AND ROME ARE VISITED BY THORPES IN MEDITERRANEAN TRAVELS

October 2, 1927.

Dear Argus:

Rome, the Eternal City! How appropriately named! Today under the very wonderful government of the great Mussolini, Rome is as grand as in the days of Nero or Julius Caesar, and what a wonderful change he has wrought in the appearance of his city! The streets just as clean as Los Angeles, the people just as well dressed, no beggars, everyone at work, and everyone happy. None of the filth and poverty that was so evident when we were here with the Rotarians six years ago, and no pickpockets and thieves, for Mussolini put a stop to that by severe jail sentences and other punishments.

A friend of mine at Naples told me her taxes had been increased by five times what they were three years ago and she personally complained to Mussolini that she could not pay such heavy taxes and make any profit. His reply was characteristic of his statesmanship: "You should not have any profit, madam, while we are going through this reconstruction period. You are doing well to make a living."

We left Constantinople by Greek steamer for Brindisi, our first Italian port, and enroute we stopped at old Corinth and its wonderful ruins, and passed through their wonderful ship canal, a miniature Panama five miles long, 60 feet wide and walls straight up and down 200 feet on either side, a very remarkable piece of engineering and requiring only one hour to pass through, and making our trip 100 miles shorter to Brindisi.

We caught the first train for Naples and arrived there at 9 p.m. the same evening. We passed through some fine agricultural country, crossing Italy from the Adriatic at Brindisi to Naples on the Mediterranean. All very rough and stony, but some fine olive orchards, all terraced up on the hillsides and splendidly cultivated. Also passed many wonderful vineyards, the vines purple with the heavy crop of wine grapes which were being harvested in many places. Also almond, peach, apple, pear, and prune orchards and in a few open valleys some big grain farms. Every available foot of land is made to produce something, and everyone was at work. Here in Rome just now they are holding a big agricultural fair and festa, celebrating the enormous crop of grain of this year. In speaking of celebrations, we arrived in Naples the day that a son and heir was born to the great Mussolini and the town was wild with joy in celebrating the event.

But I must go back a few days and say something about the wonderful time we had in Athens, Greece, the seat of all that is grand in architecture. We were met at the docks by C. C. Thurber, manager of the Near East Relief, formerly of Los Angeles and a friend of Mrs. Henry and Colonel Wood at the California Preparatory school. He took us to our hotel and furnished us with a Cadillac car and a guide for our stay there. He is in charge of the Armenian relief work in Greece and is now looking after some 2500 Armenians who are driven out of Russia and Turkey, and the Greek government is the only one in Europe to offer them a place to stay.

Of course the big thing to see at Athens is the Acropolis on the hill, and it was our first point of interest to visit. We went all through the grand old ruins and saw the sun set from behind the pillars of the temple ruins, a sight we shall never forget. We spent considerable time in the Greek national museum, with its abundance of treasures. So many cases full of gold from the old temples and tombs, enough to make a wagonload, and where did it come from?

Greece is now a republic and is making good progress under the new government. A fine university is being built on the same plan as Roberts college at Constantinople. They have a wonderful park in the center of the city, the streets are wide, clean, and it is very modern. The only handicap is a shortage of water, which will be remedied as soon as the new water system is completed. A British syndicate has just installed a first class electric street railway system and a motor bus line in connection with the street railways. The motor buses are as fine as any we have in America.

The soldiers still wear the skirts like ballet dancers and make a picturesque scene when in full regalia. But when they are on active duty they wear the ordinary khaki uniforms and arms. Athens is growing fast and now has over 1,250,000 population, the Armenian refugees making the big increase.

And now we are in Naples—Naples the beautiful, with the bay of the same name for a picture frame and the high hills and mountains at the back, and at the end of these old Vesuvius smoking away just as hard as it has been doing these thousands of years. Its top is very much flattened off from what it was a couple of years ago when my good wife was here, owing to the heavy eruptions of less than a year ago.

Naples contains much of interest to the traveler and we were busy every day we were there and regret we could not stay here a month. The trees, fruits and flowers, as well as the climate, are so very much like our dear California we wanted to have more of it, but our time for departure for home is arriving and we still have far to go. So we regretfully say goodbye to old Naples from our hotel window, looking out on the wonderful bay, and take a tram car for Pompeii to see the ruins of this famous old city buried by Vesuvius and her ashes. We saw the miles of streets and houses with many of the utensils and decorations on the interior of the houses almost as bright and in as good condition as they were 2000 years ago. We did not let a heavy rain storm stop our tour of Pompeii the hotel nearby we forgot our drenching among the ruins.

The next morning at 8 we were off on a motor bus for Amalfi, that gem of a little city hanging on the sides of the cliffs high up above the Mediterranean, and stop at the hotel Luna, formerly a monastery. The same old landlord is here and was very cordial in greeting us back to his hostelry. Our road from Pompeii to Amalfi was alongside the steep cliffs, sheer up above the sea, and all along were lovely villas with the steep hillsides terraced for gardens of orange, lemon and olive trees and vineyards, all grown on trolleys and making one green bank as far as the eye could reach. A places the mountainside rose sheer up from the sea over 2000 feet and the roadway was very narrow and cut out of solid rock, but with good heavy protecting wall on the side next the sea. The chauffeur was skillful and made all the sharp turns without any accident. I even believe "Irv" Reynolds or Walter Herring could get a thrill from a drive over this road.

We got on another motor bus at Amalfi and continued to Sorrento, where we arrived in time for a good dinner and bed at the Hotel Eden, and very well named. In the evening on the terrace of the hotel, in the lovely moonlight among the Italian cypress and palms, we saw the famous "Farrantella" danced by twenty native men and girls in old fancy costumes. A lovely dance and lovely music, with no suggestion in either dance or music of our own "Charleston" or other jazz dances.

The next day we were up early to take a steamer for the island of Capri and its famous blue grotto. To enter, we had to take a small row-boat and wait for a low tide, but its fame as a grotto is not exaggerated. On our return to Naples we encountered a severe squall and rain, which tossed our little steamer about like a cork and we all felt very thankful when we arrived on the dock at Naples in safety. We caught a night train for Rome and arrived there about midnight.

Our first point of interest in the Eternal City was the Vatican and St. Peter's, and being Sunday morning, we attended the services there and heard some wonderful singing and renewed acquaintances with many of the rare paintings and statues of this grand church, the head of the wealthiest church in the world. In the afternoon we were fortunate enough to secure permission to visit the king's palace, which he now occupies. It is by far the richest and most grandly furnished of any of the palaces we have seen. We have also visited the national museum and its treasures are as fascinating as ever, and the old Forum is just as interesting as ever, and so is its nearby neighbor, the old Coliseum, the grandest building of its kind the world has ever seen.

Rome is full of red-blooded English-speaking Americans, the host of Legionnaires doing Europe "on high" after their convention at Paris. We are glad to see them and they are certainly having a great time.

Today we went out to Tivoli, some 35 miles by the Appian Way, and once more we revel in the beauties of the old Villa de Este and its riches of fountains, gardens and wonderful views. We also see the wonderful water falls, cataracts which furnish Rome with her water supply.

We had a funny experience in a small hotel where we stopped for lunch. We tried French, Spanish and German on our waiter and could not make him understand a thing but soup. Finally, as we were about ready to quit, he said, "Do you speak English?" This made us laugh and the rest was easy. He had lived four years in New York.

Tomorrow at 7 a.m. we get a train for Florence. Italy is lovely at this time of the year and the orchards and meadows are green, especially the fields of alfalfa. We are becoming expert at juggling macaroni and spaghetti, but are not yet able to eat the same quantity as the natives do.

Our Rotary friends, the Manguns of Louisiana, left us at Athens, taking the train direct for Berlin from there, and we miss them very much as we have traveled with them over four months. Our good friend, Mrs. Mayer of Spokane, is still with us and will continue on to London. We meet many Americans every day now. Europe has never before had such hordes of American tourists as this year has brought over.

Ad revoir for this time.

BEN F. THORPE.

The Waters of San Gabriel Canyon—

Hearings begun this week before the state division of water rights, on applications for water in the San Gabriel canyon are probably mere preliminaries to a long-drawn-out legal contest which may spread over many years, if precedents in the state may be relied upon. Water fights have come to be known as virtually interminable.

There isn't any water in the San Gabriel canyon subject to appropriation at the present time. These new applications are for surplus water, which may in the future be conserved by the flood control dam, and it is difficult to see how any court or referee can take into consideration anything so hypothetical and non-existent. It is difficult to see how even a provisional priority can be established. The stream belongs to the present users, who have used it continuously, and at all times could have used more if it had been conserved or developed.

When the San Gabriel dam is built, there may be years when some surface water will be held behind the dam, but there certainly will be years when there will be no water to hold in that fashion, if we take the chart of annual discharge from the canyon as a guide.

The San Gabriel valley can put to beneficial use every drop of water that originates in that canyon. There has been an enormous amount of misinformation spread concerning the stream flow in this canyon. Municipalities lying outside of the San Gabriel basin have been sold a lot of worthless hydrographic engineering data in past years, and there has been a great deal of guessing, and the building of hopes upon guesses, when at all times the true data has been available and understandable to any person who would apply himself to the problem.

"Surplus" water, or that which has wasted into the sea during storm periods, will be largely conserved by the big dam. But not behind the dam on the surface. The San Gabriel valley users of water not only have registered priority to this water, on the surface or underground, but they have every moral right to it. It is not reasonable to suppose that any official body, court or referee, can disturb the present rights to the normal surface flow, now divided into something like nine parts, and diverted to use by irrigation and domestic companies in the valley. This is not supposed to be a question in issue. But when it comes to a question of this hypothetical surplus produced by the dam—how about the hundreds of deep wells that must be supplied, the owners of which have a right to prevent any lowering of the water level by diversion of water outside of the basin?

The plan of the conservation feature of the San Gabriel dam is to retard the storm water long enough to send it down in small quantities, to sink into the great river cone, instead of rushing on to the sea. This is the only plan that is feasible, practicable or advisable. There is no plan to hold water behind the dam in great quantities, unless and until the gravels have been saturated. That water which is arrested by the dam must eventually find its way to the underground basins of the valley, and as quickly as the process of absorption will allow.

If legal precedent is to be counted for anything, and if stream priorities mean anything, which they do, it would seem that the stream flow, great or small, artificially conserved or otherwise, belongs to the holders of the existing priorities, so long as those holders make use of it, or stand ready to make use of it.

Communities have always been governed in size by the amount of water that can be developed, with which to serve the needs of that community. In the east and mid-west of the United States, water has always been present greatly in excess of the needs of most communities, and there is no irrigation problem comparable to the conditions of arid and semi-arid areas. New York city goes to the Catskills for its great supply, and presumably injures no community by so doing. Los Angeles bought water-bearing lands outright in the Owens valley to augment its flow from the high Sierras.

But in the questions pending before the present hearing there is no question of the purchase of water-bearing lands, or the purchase of water, but the question of the diversion of water out of the basin by the establishment of a state priority. This would mean that the water would leave the valley, and not return. And the basis of these applications is that of the assumed development of "surplus" water, a surplus which has not yet been developed, and which, if all data is to be believed, will never be developed. Additional water will be conserved by the dam, it is true, but not on the surface, and not in any such quantities as propaganda has led many to believe.

If the San Gabriel valley underground basin should become thoroughly saturated to the surface point, or to such a point as would render it undesirable to spread and sink more of the supply from the canyon—and if, when this condition had arrived, there was still an amount of water behind the dam, this water remaining under arrest might be termed surplus water. But it would not constitute anything like a permanent domestic supply for any municipality. It would be there in an exceptional year, and would at all times be subject to very heavy inroads from evaporation. No city can predicate its expansion on such a will-o'-the-wisp as this kind of a water supply would constitute.

Conscientious engineers have done their best to show the actual facts. But municipal politics have seriously clouded these facts, and may lead to costly and lengthy litigation, which leads to nowhere.

"Hub of the Valley"

Baldwin Park is definitely approaching the question of incorporation as a sixth class city, and seemingly, with a preponderance of opinion in favor of it.

Fortune has favored this community. There have always been stalwart characters among its citizens to carry on the struggle through the pioneering days, and the predictions made by some of those early residents, although bringing a smile at one time, have more than come true. The community has nearly 5,000 people within the school area. There is more building activity than in any other community in the upper valley. Its bank is steadily approaching the million dollar mark, and without question will reach it within six months.

Baldwin Park has held away from the incorporation idea, when other communities, far smaller, have incorporated. Baldwin Park has gone ahead with the street and lighting improvements, and has authorized the expenditure for a big park—all in advance of incorporation, and will have an argument with force when it comes to putting the incorporation matter to a vote. The San Gabriel valley will welcome Baldwin Park as its newest city with the assurance that it is to grow rapidly, and that it will make good its claim of being "The Hub of the San Gabriel Valley."

Blind Corners—

Here and there blind corners are being eliminated in this valley by the rapidly-increasing number of filling stations. Although a service to the public not contemplated, it is a distinct service, nevertheless.

The hundreds of intersections over the valley where the orange or walnut trees completely obscure the view are a greater menace today than in the past. Roads that formerly had but a nominal local travel are in a fair way to become boulevards, with a heavy stream of traffic. The service station comes as a godsend at such corners, widening the view and decreasing the danger.

Incidentally, valley residents are coming to realize that the old and careless methods of driving on what used to be by-ways and back streets must become a thing of the past. Death lurks at every intersection, as has been demonstrated all too clearly, especially in the past few months.

Great Flood Control Dams Visited by London Editor

Editor's Note.—The Los Angeles Times has been printing a series of articles on Southern California, written by one of the editors of the London Daily News. He is in the United States for six months, and an American editor is taking his place in London. On Friday, October 29, he made a journey over the flood control district in company with Chief Flood Control Engineer E. C. Eaton and a staff of flood control engineers. He tells of the trip in the following article:

By PHILIP HEWITT-MYRING

At the foot of one of the highest walls ever erected by human hands stood a group of five men. It was headed by the chief engineer of the flood department of the county of Los Angeles, and its other members consisted of a hydrographic expert, a well-known county newspaper man, a permanent member of the Times staff, and an English journalist called Hewitt-Myring. In deference, doubtless, to the flood department, rain was falling in torrents.

The wall was that of the Pacoima dam, to which we had motored through a canyon which one would have imagined had been especially designed by nature to keep autos out, and the question under debate was whether we should embark on a large steel tea-tray; he hauled on it up 300 feet of what looked like sheer precipice and see this gigantic erection from above. We were discussing this ascent from the point of view of whether we had the time for it. To one of us, at least, it seemed that there might be other angles from which it could be regarded.

ASCENSION WINS

We had the time, and, with well-feigned enthusiasm on the part of those who had not done the trip before, we embarked on the tea tray. The bell by which those who were looking after our safety below could communicate with the man working the electric hoisting motor 300 feet above was tested. Do they not make similar tests on the electric chair before it receives its victims?

The ascent began. Below us, and made all the more impressive by the rain and mist, widened out an awe-inspiring panorama of mountain, gorge and plain. Then, three-quarters way up, the tea tray stopped. So did my heart. Like Mohammed's coffin we hung suspended between earth and heaven. Years passed. Then our tea tray quivered into life and recommenced the upward climb. What is more, when we had gazed our fill on the stupendous Pacoima reservoir from above, it brought us down safely. But I cannot remember descending from any vehicle with more alacrity.

WILD WEST STUFF

From Pacoima we went to Sawpit and from Sawpit to the site of the projected San Gabriel dam—a slithering ride this, in which the chief engineer's car showed that it had more of the true western spirit in it than Tom Mix's bronco. Seeing all this and hearing the well-nigh incredible statistics that have reference to the work of the flood department, I wondered if the citizens of this district themselves really appreciate the magnitude of the work that is being done to save them from loss during floods, for there are, in all, thirteen great dams within the confines of the county district; and besides these monster erections, there are mile upon mile of river bank to be buttressed with wire-and-rock mattresses or by some other means, and minor defensive measures to be cared for past all reckoning.

It was curious to stand still in the pouring rain, far up in the San Gabriel canyon on a spot in the dry river bed that will one day be the center of a wall of concrete 400 feet thick. Larger than the great English dam at Assouan, Egypt, larger by far than the Keniseo dam in New York state (which I found infinitely impressive when I saw it three weeks ago) the colossal concrete dam will be a new wonder of the world. A vast lake will be created in the mountains by its creation and it will save the San Gabriel valley from the floods that have devastated it in the past.

COMPLICATED INDUSTRY

The "only" in the case is, as I gather it, has been experienced once or twice before in the history of the United States, local politics. Into the "high-dam" and "low-dam" controversy, which has resulted in there being up to the present no dam at all, I am not qualified to enter. But talking over the matter by the hour with men who have studied the problem for months on end, one cannot help forming two definite impressions. The first is that thousands of people must be discussing and even voting on the question without the slightest comprehension of the infinitely complex problems involved; and the second, that the disagreement of the experts regarding the respective costs of the two rival schemes would seem to show that the public is asking too much when it demands accurate cost estimates before any work is commenced.

SUGGESTIONS OFFERED

As far as the latter point is concerned, one simple suggestion presents itself. Anything, one would say, is better than the present stagnation. Why should not excavation of a sufficient area to form the base of the high dam be commenced? Before this preliminary work is completed, the experts should be able to lay down within a relatively small margin of error the cost of the whole.

If, then, the high dam is to be constructed, all will be well; if the low dam is required, the loss on the unnecessary excavation will not exceed, say, $100,000, and even that would not be lost if, at some later date, it is decided to convert the low dam into the high dam, for the surface excavated will be there ready for the erection on it of the additional construction.

That, at least, would mean that something was being done and that something badly needs to be done no one who has been over the ground as carefully as I have, and has listened to the expert opinions that I have listened to, could doubt for one moment.

Safeway Stores Share in Profits

A melon-cut has just been participated in by 450 store managers of the Southern California Safeway stores, bringing the total to $164,000 paid out to these partner-managers to date for 1927, it was announced yesterday by Edward Dale, vice-president of the grocery chain.

"Under our new profit-sharing plan, originated and successfully applied by our president, M. B. Skaggs, every Safeway store manager is entitled to receive thirty per cent of the profits of his store."

"The total paid out to date for 1927 on this plan is $164,000, or an average of $17,000 monthly."

"The Safeway plan of compensation is probably the most liberal in effect with any merchandising company in the United States today. In this connection Mr. Skaggs has expressed his hope to distribute not less than a quarter of a million dollars to the store managers of southern California for 1927."

"This plan, operating without the investment of a single dollar on the part of store managers, has proved to be surprisingly successful from its inception, not only in further stimulating the energies of our store managers, but in vastly increasing our 1927 sales over those of the previous year."

Big Season for North Whittier Heights Growers

(Puebla Journal)

The past week has witnessed the closing of the Valencia season of the two orange growing houses in Puebla and vicinity. Not only has the season come to a close, but the citrus growers are "sitting pretty," enjoying the emoluments of one of the best seasons ever known in California citrus growing.

The North Whittier Heights association and Puebla Mutual Citrus association both report fine returns and satisfactory checks to their patrons. Manager Robinson of the latter house stated this week that the average of the last pool was from $2.50 to $3.00 per field box, which is exceptionally fine.

Manager M. H. Wood of the North Whittier Heights association states that the year just closed has been the largest in the history of the association. The fiscal year of this company ended on Monday.

All citrus growers have fared well in their returns. The shipments from the two Puebla houses not only show an increase in the number of carloads, but also in the cash received.

Mr. and Mrs. J. H. Coolman had as their guest on Thursday of last week Mrs. Mary Parnin of Pasadena. Miss Grace Stewart of Los Angeles spent Sunday with Mr. and Mrs. J. H. Buresh of California street.

"...We saw Sunkist Oranges and Lemons displayed everywhere"

MANY Californians, returning from the east, casually remark that Sunkist oranges and lemons appeared to be conspicuously displayed everywhere.

To the public the universal distribution and display of California oranges and lemons merely means that these twin fruits can be readily purchased at any time or place.

But to the California Fruit Growers Exchange, which markets three-fourths of the California citrus crop, it means a goal achieved—an ambition realized.

For, as all merchandisers know, complete distribution doesn't just happen. Dealers everywhere don't buy products and put them in their show windows spontaneously. This salesmen's goal of perfection is something that must be built step by step with hard and patient work.

In the case of California oranges and lemons the selling organization of the California Fruit Growers Exchange covers the national fruit trade like a blanket.

Reporting to the central office in Los Angeles are 59 district sales offices, each with a trained staff responsible for sales in a certain prescribed territory.

No other farmers' organization has such complete and reliable knowledge of its markets as the California Fruit Growers Exchange. Good distribution to the wholesale markets is not a matter of guess work. The Exchange knows where every car can be sold to the best advantage because it has up-to-the-minute facts on market conditions everywhere. And it has an aggressive sales organization to take advantage of this knowledge.

But the efforts of the Exchange do not end with carload sales. To the retail trade it sends crews of dealer service men. Theirs is the task of getting the fruit attractively displayed in store windows and making sure it is offered at fair prices. This year these men helped 69,960 grocers, fruit dealers, soda fountains, hotels, and restaurants to display and sell more California oranges and lemons.

And as a final step, through its advertising, the Exchange sends its dealers new customers, bigger buyers—people who have been educated by advertising to feel that they should eat twice as many oranges and lemons as they did a few years ago, and that in buying they should specify, "Sunkist."

Thus dealers have seen their sales grow to a point where they are glad, not only to handle California oranges and lemons, but to display them prominently.

So the off-hand remark, "we saw Sunkist oranges and lemons displayed everywhere," conveys more than ordinary satisfaction to members of the Exchange. It means that a good job has been done. It means convenience of purchase to the public, increased sales to the trade, and widest possible distribution for the California citrus industry. But it has been a task that the growers' organization willingly shouldered, for the fruit marketed through the Exchange inevitably benefits most by the sales effort, dealer service and advertising done by the Exchange.

Talk to the manager of the nearest Exchange Association or District Exchange. Or, write for further information to California Fruit Growers Exchange, Box 530, Station "C," Los Angeles.

WHAT THE EXCHANGE IS...

The California Fruit Growers Exchange is a non-profit organization of over 11,000 California citrus fruit growers, producing about 75% of the California citrus crop, operated by and for them on a cooperative basis. Its object is to develop the national and international market for California oranges, lemons and grapefruit by continuous advertising, and to provide a marketing organization that will sell the fruit of its members most advantageously and at the least expense. Receipts from sales, less only the actual cost of operation, are returned to the growers. Applications for membership are received through all of the Exchange's 201 local packing associations, 23 District Exchanges or at the central office in Los Angeles.

Early Days in Covina

TEN YEARS AGO

Second anniversary night for Covina's playhouse. The Star theater was filled last night with people who came to see a good program and to congratulate Mrs. Lulu A. Dietz on the splendid success she has made of the theater in the past two years. The theater has done its bit every night in the interest of patriotism, running slides of all kinds that are furnished by the government.

The quartet of the Presbyterian church, under the direction of Mrs. Henry Marshall, has arranged a musical program for this coming Sunday evening. The collection taken will be for the Yuletide fund for the soldiers.

Rev. F. B. Cowgill, pastor of the Methodist church, has just returned from Minnesota, where he was called to attend the fiftieth anniversary of the Redwood Falls Methodist church. Citrus shipments 54,000 earloads. The 1916-17 fruit season for California closed October 31st, with the biggest season's shipment in the history of the citrus industry.

The new state law in regard to shipping immature oranges, which was made to cover the early navel crops from the central and northern parts of the state particularly, is the subject of considerable discussion among fruit shippers. The law requires that the fruit shall test 8 to 1 and shall be substantially colored.

Mr. and Mrs. A. L. Dowler of San Francisco, who own the "Oronok" ranch on Azusa avenue, arrived here this week and will open up their home on the ranch for the winter.

A delightful pre-nuptial shower was given by Mrs. C. C. Gady and daughters at their home on South Citrus avenue for Miss Esther Scofield Saturday afternoon, who is to wed Dr. Claude Wynn Searcy on Thursday, November 22nd. The guest of honor was the recipient of some lovely gifts from her friends.

TWENTY-FIVE YEARS AGO

J. H. and Harvey Brubaker have taken a trip into the Fresno country to investigate some new lands which have been thrown on the market in that section.

Covina's dramatic season will be opened November 21st by the screaming farce, "A Box of Monkeys," and a musical program presented by well-known Covina artists, for the benefit of the public library. Music by Paul Jennison, Mrs. J. T. Anderson, school orchestra.

More than 75 ladies of the W. C. T. U. from Azusa, Glendora and Covina were present at the social given at the home of Mrs. J. D. Reed Thursday afternoon. The event was in honor of Mrs. Gattson's birthday, she having acted in the capacity of treasurer for the past ten years.

Frank Bisbee and wife of Pomona were visiting with the former's parents, Mr. and Mrs. D. H. Bisbee, Sunday. Frank holds a responsible position with the Pomona machine shops.

E. S. Fuller of Northfield, Minn., father of Mrs. J. S. Eckles, arrived from the east Thursday evening. He was accompanied by Mrs. Eckles' cousins, Mr. and Mrs. C. E. Blackman and five daughters. Arthur Baker of Westgate, Iowa, was also in the party. Mr. Blackman has rented the Spencer house for the winter. They expect to reside permanently in Southern California.

Mr. and Mrs. J. A. Ennis and Miss Houghtaling, of Hastings, Minn., arrived on Thursday and have rented the Evans cottage on Cottage Drive for the winter.

Mark Keppel is being endorsed for county superintendent of schools by the schools of Los Angeles, their endorsement stating that Mr. Keppel is a student and scholar, absolutely reliable and honest in all things and fearless in standing for what he believes to be just and honorable.

Woman's Club Hears Talk on Reforestation

The Woman's club was glad to welcome on its Monday afternoon program Miss Helen Broadwell, past-president of the club, and Mr. Robert Broadwell, who gave the audience a delightful half hour of music. Miss Broadwell sang a group of songs pertinent to the topic discussed by the speaker, John A. Hart of the American Green Cross association.

Miss Broadwell sang "Trees," by Rausbach, "Eulogy to a Tree," by Handel, and "I Passed By Your Window" (Brahe), accompanied by her brother, Mr. Broadwell, who then favored the audience with a group of three piano solos, "Arbesque" (Debussy), "Scherzo," and "Polonaise" (Chopin).

Mr. Hart spoke in a convincing manner on the devastated forests of the United States and the needs of reforestation. He explained that the Green Cross was doing for the sick and devastated forests the same service that the Red Cross was performing for humanity. He gave startling figures of the condition of the forests of this country, pointing to the flooded condition of the Mississippi valley as one of the effects.

A basket of beautiful chrysanthemums from the garden of Mrs. L. M. Swallow, and three choice blooms from the mammoth varieties grown by Mr. and Mrs. S. S. Aschenbrenner decorated the rostrum.

At the close of the program, a happy half hour was spent around the tea tables, presided over by Mrs. C. E. Paige, assisted by Mrs. Joe Wilke and Mrs. C. W. Potter, with Mrs. Ronald Taylor and Mrs. Jackson, assistants. A table of baked foods in the parlors found ready sale.

Several announcements were made. The history and landmarks section will not meet until after Thanksgiving. The Americanization committee issued a call for old carpet or rugs to use on the floors of the temporary neighborhood house at Irwindale. The welfare committee asked for donations for Thanksgiving to go to the boys' camp up the San Gabriel canyon, stating that products of food could be left with Miss Farmer at Warner & Whitel's.

The next meeting will be "gentlemen's night," on the evening of the 28th. This evening is for all club members and is planned for entertainment of the gentlemen of the household or a friend. Sir John Adams, lecturer and after-dinner speaker will give his lecture, "The Psychology of Boredom."

BIG FOOTBALL STARS WITNESS GAME HERE

Among football celebrities who witnessed the Covina-Citrus game here last Friday were Jesse Hibbs, Al Scheving, Howard Elliott and Don Williams of the University of Southern California team. Many Covina alumni and former residents were also in town for the big day.

Mr. and Mrs. R. W. Crook and children and Mrs. C. T. Booth spent Saturday and Sunday at Big Bear.

Mrs. William Griswold entertained the ladies of the Presbyterian church at an all-day sewing meeting on Thursday of this week.

Lightweights Defeat Citrus by Score of 33-0

From Cardinal and White: Completely outclassing the Citrus lightweights, the Little Colts waded through the former 33-0 Thursday of last week. Their victory proved to be prophetic of the coming varsity game.

The Colts kicked off and by holding Citrus for downs soon had the ball. Yards were rapidly piled up, and after five downs Williams carried the ball for a touchdown. The goal was converted by Williams running the ball across the line. Later in the first quarter Williams again broke loose and made a touchdown. The Colts were not able to convert.

In the second quarter Citrus tried a punt which was blocked. The Colts recovered on the Citrus 11-yard line. G. Lamphear, who replaced Williams at full, took the oval for a touchdown. Lamphear ran the ball across for the conversion.

Shortly after the half, G. Lamphear broke loose for 30 yards, after which he made a touchdown. It was not converted.

Three minutes before the final gun the Colts again raised the score. Vincent made the touchdown and also ran the ball across for the extra point.

Out of eight passes Citrus completed two, while the Colts passed only three times and completed one. Citrus made three first downs and Covina sixteen.

The lineup was as follows:

Warns Autoists of New Orders in School Zones

Sacramento.—Aroused over records showing that more than a score of school children were either killed or injured by careless autoists during the first two weeks of the new school term, Frank G. Snook, chief of the state division of motor vehicles, has taken steps to eliminate the menace.

Orders have been issued to all traffic officers to arrest any motorists driving past a schoolhouse where children are either entering or leaving, faster than fifteen miles per hour. The officers have been instructed to charge all persons arrested with reckless driving. Snook issued his order under authority of section 113B of the motor vehicle act, which prohibits a speed in excess of fifteen miles per hour in the vicinity of a school where children are entering or leaving.

"The best way to avoid hitting children," declared Snook, "is to keep your speed down. Watch carefully at intersections and between parked cars. Children are liable to lodge out at any moment on their way to and from school. Remember your hurry to get to your destination may rob someone of a loved one."

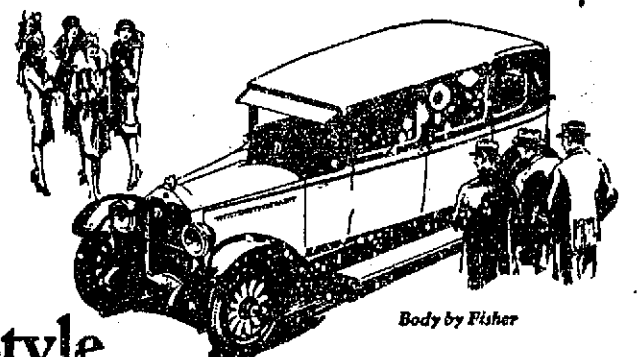

Merchants' Credit Association Meets

The San Gabriel Valley Merchants' Credit association held its first annual meeting at the Baldwin Park Woman's clubhouse, Monday evening. After a six-thirty dinner a program followed. George Nayland, the cashier of the First National bank, was chairman of the meeting. Ira Pontius, president of the chamber of commerce, gave a few words of welcome, and the secretary of the chamber of commerce also made a few remarks of welcome. The principal speaker was W. P. Potter, manager of the Merchants' association of Glendale. A. V. Storer of Pomona was a guest and expressed his pride at being a guest at the first birthday party of the association.

New directors elected for the coming year were H. Pyle of Puente, T. H. Mace of Glendora, Fred Roth and L. L. Root of Baldwin Park, and Mrs. Lucile Close Peters of Covina.

Lions Hear of Delegates' Trip

A feature of the weekly luncheon of the Lions club was the fifteen-minute talk by Lion F. W. Carter, giving the incidents of his two months' trip this summer, especially that part relating to the Lions international convention at Miami, Florida, which he attended as a representative of the Covina den.

Among the interesting events at this convention was the reception by the people of Miami and throughout Florida. At the time of the great storm the Lions of Miami were among the first to organize for relief of the stricken section. The first rescue work of the destroyed section was also the work of the Lions club of that city. In their appreciation, the citizens of that city seemingly could not do enough for the delegates attending the convention.

The speaker's description of his trip to Cuba was another feature of his talk.

VALLEY CITIZENS ATTEND SAN BERNARDINO DINNER

Officials of cities in the upper San Gabriel valley, managers of packing houses, chamber of commerce secretaries and newspapermen joined the Pacific Electric train caravan to San Bernardino Tuesday night of this week, and participated in the annual Bear valley duck dinner that is always the prelude to the National Orange Show campaign. Among those present from Covina were Robert H. Neely and J. L. Matthews.

LARK ELLEN PARENT-TEACHER ASSOCIATION MEETS

The Lark Ellen Parent-Teacher association met at the schoolhouse for an all-day meeting on Wednesday. The reading circle was called to order at 11 o'clock by Mrs. T. E. Foster. After lunch the regular Parent-Teacher association meeting was held, at which time the school assembly program was given. Mr. Bailey opened the program by a short talk, after which Miss Connell's room gave a splendid program. The map of adventure purchased by the association was on exhibition. It is to be given to the room securing the largest number of P. T. A. members. The map is interesting as well as educational and will be enjoyed by the whole school. The paper drive is still on and the association will appreciate any papers given them.

The Neighbors of Woodcraft and the W.O.W. held a 6:30 dinner, followed by dancing, on Monday evening at the I. O. O. F. hall. Casper's orchestra furnished music for the dancing.

"Ben Hur" Will Be Shown Three Days at Covina

At the Covina theater tonight (Friday) and tomorrow Buck Jones will appear in his latest production, "The Flying Horseman." In his latest starring vehicle Buck has a story which has some novel angles and gives him an opportunity to display his versatile talents.

Aileen Pringle will be featured with Norman Kerry and Lionel Barrymore on Sunday and Monday in "Body and Soul." The cast of this dramatic production consists of but four people, though there are several others who play what is known in studio parlance as "bits."

Dorothy Mackaill and Jack Mulhall will be the leading plays on the program for Tuesday and Wednesday in "The Crystal Cup." The villain of the story, nameless and without a definite personality, provides a psychological menace throughout the entire plot.

"Ben Hur" is the big production secured by Manager Brown to run for three days, Thursday, Friday and Saturday. Ramon Novarro and May McAvoy have leading parts. This romantic story touches the deepest note of human emotions and it is said that at times there are few dry eyes in the audience.

Mr. and Mrs. Ralph W. Crook of Rowland avenue are attending the Pomona-Occidental football game tomorrow afternoon.

Mrs. E. L. Ashcroft of Ruddock street returned last week from three months spent in Chicago, Milwaukee and St. Paul.

70,600 Cars of Citrus Fruits Net Huge Sum

Prosperity to the extent of $120,000,000 visited the California citrus industry in 1926-27, when all shipment records in the history of the state were broken, E. G. Dezell, general manager of the California Fruit Growers Exchange, indicated in his annual report.

The delivered value of the year's crop was $161,282,429.57, of which $41,618,834.27 represents freight and refrigeration costs, Mr. Dezell said. Last year's volume of citrus fruits was approximately $98,000,000, nearly $22,000,000 less than this year's total.

Carload shipments for the year just closed totaled 7,600, which was 2000 cars greater than last season. Division of this total was 57,169 carloads of oranges and grapefruit and 13,437 carloads of lemons.

Shipments through the exchange during 1926-27 totaled 50,468 carloads—38,891 cars of oranges and grapefruit and 11,577 of lemons. In terms of boxes, exchange shipments equaled 17,815,857 of oranges and grapefruit and 4,450,754 of lemons.

LARGEST IN HISTORY

Estimating the value of cars yet unsold, returns to exchange shippers of f. o. b. cars California during the season had a value of $85,295,840.89. The delivered value of the wholesale trade was $114,843,724.89, the largest return to California in the history of the industry.

In 23 years returns to the exchange shippers have aggregated $817,000,000, credit losses on which have been but $38,795 or 47-100 of 1 per cent of the f. o. b. returns, the report shows.

Total supply of oranges and grapefruit in the United States and Canada was 10,000 greater than in 1925-26 despite severe damage in Florida. "The satisfactory disposition of this large crop stands out prominently among practically every fruit and food product," says Mr. Dezell. "Demand has not only been developed to absorb increased supplies, but the public has been educated to realize the healthfulness of the fruit to a degree where it has been willing to pay satisfactory prices for the increasingly larger crops. The increase in the United States orange and grapefruit supply in the last 15 years has been more than five times as rapid as the gain in population."

BUMPER LEMON CROP

Navel and valencia oranges both met satisfactory response, Mr. Dezell said. Navels totaled 18,919 cars of exchange fruit, compared with 14,424 cars the year before. Valentines were 20,845 cars for the past year and 18,888 cars the year before. Miscellaneous varieties represented 794 cars and grapefruit 709 cars.

Five hundred thousand boxes of Sunkist oranges and grapefruit were exported to the United Kingdom and Europe. This is more than twice the volume of 1925-26. Exports to Europe were nearly as great as the total of the last 16 years.

The lemon crop was the largest the industry has ever produced. The season just closing had available more than 20,000 carloads for shipment, which considerably exceeds the total consumption of lemons in the United States and Canada.

Disposition of thousands of carloads of lemons and oranges was made through the exchange lemon and orange by-products companies, which handle large quantities of off-grade fruit for sundry by-products.

The Sunkist electric juice extractor which was perfected in 1922, is responsible for an annual consumption of 2,080,700 boxes, or 5,202 cars, of citrus fruits. There are now 41,614 of the machines in operation, 7,100 being sold the past year.

Conservatively estimated, Dezell says, the 41,000 machines' consumption represent a volume of 486,467,600 drinks, with a retail sales value at 10 cents a drink of $48,646,760.

Twenty years have just been completed by both the advertising department and the Fruit Growers Supply company. The latter branch of the exchange has furnished packing house and orchard supplies to the grower members of the exchange in the aggregate of $101,881,119 and has returned to them in refunds and dividends $5,502,672.

Every family in this country spent $9.32 for California oranges, lemons and grapefruit last year. This represents a total retail value of $255,165,000 for the California crop, a per capita expenditure of $2.15, the report says.

Gross sales of more than a billion dollars have been made since the advertising department started its work, with f. o. b. returns to exchange growers of $788,346,542. During the 20 years almost nine million dollars were invested in advertising, or about 82-100 of 1 per cent of gross sales.

sang "The Land to Which We Go." Masses of blooms on the altar testified fragrant to the love and esteem in which she was held. Rev. Alfred Inwood was assisted in the service by his brother, Rev. E. J. Inwood of Long Beach, and the Rev. George Steed, pastor of the Covina church.

The pallbearers were Dr. J. D. Reed, C. W. Potter, Solon Jessup, E. G. Pather, W. M. Griswold and Ernest Robertson.

Interment was made in Fairmount cemetery, upon the shoulder of the Sierra Madre mountains at the head of Citrus avenue, the pioneer burial ground, and where her husband and friends of early years have preceded her to eternal rest. The ceremony in this consecrated ground overlooking the valley was memory-stirring, as it was reflected that she who was being honored among the last, if not indeed the last, that might be laid there.

WAS SCHOOL TEACHER

Delight S. Lee died November 14, 1927, in Covina, after an illness in the Covina hospital. She was 88 years old on September 29, and was born at Kendala, Seneca county, New York, the daughter of John and Agnes Baldrige. She came to California in 1865, through the Isthmus of Panama, and graduated from the University of the Pacific, Santa Clara (now College of the Pacific), in 1865. She was the last surviving member of the class.

Following graduation, she taught school in northern California and Washington until her marriage, September 29, to George W. Lee of Tumwater, Washington. She removed to California in 1875, coming to live in this community in 1877, where she has resided since that time. Mrs. Lee was the sister of the late Michael Baldrige (known in this valley as a pioneer in the citrus business), of Robert, James, Herman and Nancy E. Baldrige, Mrs. Phoebe S. Garrison, formerly of Covina, and Mrs. Orpha S. Eckler, now residing here.

The children surviving her are: Rev. Barr Gifford Lee of Sacramento; Herman B. Lee of Anaheim; William A. Lee and Mrs. Helen Lee Viall, of Covina. There is one granddaughter, Mary Virginia Lee, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Herman B. Lee, and a number of other relatives, many of whom have been pioneers here.

French Writer Announces New Auto Battery

PARIS, Nov. 6.—An electric automobile that will run 600 miles on a charge that can be put into it in an hour is announced as an accomplished fact by Jean Cabrerets, a technical writer.

A new electric battery—a "real revolution in science"—he says, has proved its worth and the right to make it has been acquired by French, English and German firms, whose names are kept secret.

A Spanish Jesuit priest, Father Almeida, is credited with the invention.

Cabrerets says the battery, compared to the present types, has ten times the capacity, weight for weight, and five times the capacity, size for size. It can be charged, he asserts, in one-twenty-fifth the time of ordinary types.

Picturing current models of electric cars, he says, the new battery would propel one 600 miles as compared with 120 miles, but with a saving of 450 pounds, while if space were found to carry a new battery of the same weight as the old one, the range of action would be 1200 miles. Best of all, the charge could be renewed completely during the lunch hour.

The chemical action is said to be similar to present practice, through the decomposition of two electrodes, one of which is silver or heavily silvered.

Boy (accompanied by smaller boy): "I want a tooth out, an' I don't want gas, 'cos I'm in a 'urry." Dentist: "That's a brave young man! Which tooth is it?" Boy: "Show 'im yer tooth, Albert."

Objectively Speaking

Minor: "Were you fired with enthusiasm when you tackled your first job after leaving college?" Ology: "Was I? I never saw a man so glad to get rid of me in my life."
